

AMERICAN ARMY ADVANCES INTO MEXICO

YANKEES CROSS MEXICAN BORDER

Three Thousand American Soldiers Will Prevent Firing Over Boundary Line.

REBELS REACH JUAREZ

Shrapnel Shells Are Being Fired by United States Field Artillery to Dislodge Villa Forces From the Race Track.

El Paso, June 16.—The first shrapnel shot from United States army guns was fired over Juarez at 12:30 a. m., in the direction of the Juarez race track to dislodge Villistas. A second shot followed in five minutes, which struck near the race track, followed at two-minute intervals from two guns placed near the international bridge on the Mexican side.

El Paso, Texas, June 16.—The Twenty-fourth infantry, fourth battalion, crossed the international boundary to Juarez. The Fifth and Seventh cavalry regiments crossed at three fords east of El Paso.

A battalion of the Eighty-second cavalry crossed east of the stockyards. There were approximately 3,600 American troops on Mexican soil ten minutes after they were ordered to make the crossing.

Colonel Sellar R. H. Tompkins of the Seventh cavalry was in command of the cavalry brigade which crossed at the fords and Col. Hadsell was in command of the infantry. Two armored motor cars rumbled over the bridge at 10:55 p. m., going to Juarez.

Following a signal rocket, the American cavalry near San Lorenzo, Chihuahua, started an enveloping movement to the east and southeast of Juarez, to surround the rebels, who were then in the vicinity of the race track. A second green signal rocket indicated the cavalry were advancing at a charge. Heavy firing by American artillery continued.

To Prevent Firing on El Paso. The reason given at military headquarters for ordering the troops to cross was "to prevent firing from the Mexican side on El Paso."

Brigadier General Erwin refused to comment at the time of the crossing. He added emphatically that it was not to be an invasion of Mexico, that the situation was fully understood by General Francisco Gonzalez and the Carranza officials and that no resistance was anticipated from the Carranza forces which have been fighting in Juarez and "no strong resistance is anticipated from the Villa forces," General Erwin added.

Troops Patrol Juarez. Negro soldiers of the Twenty-fourth infantry are patrolling the principal streets of Juarez. All Americans without special permits were taken to the bridge and ordered to the American side. Juarez is quiet. No shots have been fired by or at the American soldiers.

Following the killing of one artillery man of the Eighty-second artillery and the serious wounding of another by Mexican snipers, General Erwin ordered 25 expert riflemen to that point to return the snipers fire. The shots which killed the artilleryman were fired before the American artillery began the bombardment of the race track.

The proclamation is a result of reports that civilians in villages over a radius of 90 miles beyond the occupied zones were planning to withdraw, or were moving into the interior of Germany.

Special Correspondents Will Be Placed in Various Political World Centers.

Weimar, June 16.—The German majority socialist party will establish an international press service immediately after peace is concluded.

A resolution to this effect was adopted by the party's convention, now meeting here. It will maintain special correspondents in the various political world centers, including Washington, Tokyo and Peking.

The convention rejected a motion to exclude Friedrich Ebert, the German president, and Philipp Scheidemann, the premier, from the party's executive committee.

Herman Mueller, a member of the National Assembly from Berlin, introduced a resolution declaring that party comrades holding office were responsible to the party and that of officeholding was no reason for denying them a right to belong to the executive council or to hold other party offices.

MUNITIONS DUMP EXPLODES

Large Amount of German War Material Destroyed.

Baltimore, June 16.—Great quantities of German munitions recently brought to the Aberdeen proving ground from overseas and piled at the munitions dump five miles from the center of the reservation, caught fire and exploded. The explosions shook this city and their force was also felt on the Eastern shore. A shell passed through the farm house of Harry Holloway, near Aberdeen, but no one was injured.

Capture Juarez and Hunt Down Villista Bandits With Armored Cars

(By United Press)

El Paso, June 16.—United States troops were in full possession of Juarez, Mexico, today, and American cavalry scoured the territory south and east of Juarez capturing or killing every Villista soldier they found. The American advance into Juarez was undertaken at 11 p. m. Sunday by orders from General J. B. Irwin, commander in the El Paso district, to prevent further firing into the city as the result of fighting in Juarez, which was under heavy assault from the Villista forces.

Piloted by armored cars a number of American machine gun crews and a one pound battery led the advance. They were closely followed by negro troops of the 24th United States Infantry wearing trench helmets and campaign packs. Two companies of the 19th infantry followed closely. The advance encountered little resistance at first, but sniping soon began. After one soldier had been killed, orders were given to hunt down snipers and kill them on sight. In the meantime guns of the 82d field artillery opened a bombardment from the El Paso side against the race track east of Juarez where the Villistas were entrenched. At last reports the American advance was going well.

ARMY OF 200,000 MEN

Allies Said to Have Made Concession to Germany.

Teuton Power May Be Admitted to League of Nations in the Near Future.

Paris, June 16.—Germany is to be allowed an army of 200,000 men for three years. This is one of the changes in the peace terms which has been sedulously kept secret.

The reason given for this doubling of the previous number of effectives is the impossibility of adjusting the armies of Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia and other new states proportionately to the previously arranged 100,000 men for Germany.

A general reduction of armaments is to be negotiated immediately. Germany's admission to the league of nations is fixed for "the near future."

Her admission will enable Germany to bring up for discussion her economic propositions. Germany will be given four months to submit to the Allies proposals dealing with her total indebtedness through reparations, and methods for the payment thereof. She may propose merchandise and labor.

The Allies are to reply within two months.

A plebiscite for Upper Silesia will be taken within six to eighteen months.

A clause deals with the protection by the league of nations of German minorities inhabiting the districts taken from Germany. Another deals with the inter-Allied civil commission, which will administer the left bank of the Rhine occupied by the Allied troops, to which the existing military commission will be subordinated.

URGES LAWS TO CRUSH ANARCHY

Report of Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Subject Scores Radicalism.

STATUTES INADEQUATE

Document Deals With Bolshevism, Pro-German Propaganda and Political Activities of Brewery and Liquor Interests.

Washington, June 16.—Lawlessness, violence and radicalism in America, and Bolshevism, as exemplified by soviet rule in Russia, were scored in a report made public by the senate judiciary subcommittee which made an inquiry into these and other subjects during the past session of congress. Recommendations by the subcommittee for legislation included:

A permanent law similar to the war time espionage act designed to control "forces of anarchy and violence" and "adequately protect our national sovereignty and our established institutions."

Would Regulate Explosives. Strict regulation of the manufacture, distribution and possession of high explosives.

Regulation of "mushroom organizations" and special interests which propagate "notions of government, sociology, benevolence or what not."

Control and regulation of foreign language publications.

More specific identification of newspaper interests, by amendment and broadening of the law requiring publishers to report their ownership, editors, creditors, circulation and other facts to the Postoffice department.

Laws Held Inadequate.

Strengthening of the corrupt practices act regarding political contributions, existing Federal laws being declared inadequate to meet present-day political methods.

The report comprised nearly 25,000 words and was signed by the full subcommittee, including Senators Overman, North Carolina, chairman, and Nelson, Minnesota, and Sterling, South Dakota.

Broadly, the report dealt with these main subjects, investigation of which was ordered by the senate—Bolshevism, pro-German propaganda, both before and after the United States entered the war, and the political activities of the brewery and liquor interests.

Activities of German agents and sympathizers and of the liquor interests were arraigned.

In a general statement prefacing its legislative recommendations the committee said its investigations disclosed "certain well defined abuses, prejudicial to the best interests of the nation and calculated to undermine and destroy our form of government."

FAVORITE SONGS OF OUR FIGHTING MEN

EVERY BRANCH OF THE SERVICE HAD ITS OWN, BUT SEVERAL WERE SUNG BY ALL.

TALK OF AN ORGANIZATION

No Plan Yet Suggested Seems to Meet
With General Favor—Society of Veterans Must Include the Entire Army.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—The swan songs of the members of the house of representatives of the Sixty-fifth congress were soldier songs. They were sung full lustily, if not full tunefully. Congress sings once a year. The army sings every day.

A dozen times a day men who saw service in the American expeditionary forces are asked to name the favorite soldier songs. So far as my own observation went the prime favorites in order were: "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "The Long, Long Trail," "Over There," and "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Every branch of the service had a song of its own, and it contained some words slandering some other branch of the service—good-naturedly, of course. Here is one verse of the doughboys' song which I heard a hundred times, and heard it sung in a rising scale of vociferousness proportionate to the number of men of the other services who happened to be present:

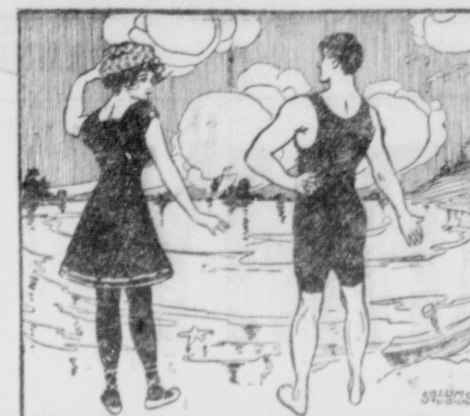

The doughboys, the doughboys with the dirt behind their ears.
The doughboys, the doughboys can drink a million beers.
The cavalry, artillery, and the doggone eight
army.
They couldn't lick the doughboys
In a hundred thousand years.

The cavalry, artillery, air service, engineers, and all the rest had songs in high praise of their own services. Usually these songs were kept for special occasions, while "Hail, Hail," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "The Long, Long Trail," and every other song were likely to be sung at any glad moment when the spirit moved, and the spirit was an active mover at pretty nearly all times except when insistence on silence was necessary because of the nearness of the Hun.

All Sang the Night of November 11. On the night of November 11, 1918, the soldiers in the front line trenches sang. Bonfires were aglow on every hill and in every valley through the miles and miles of the lines which had been embattled lines only a few hours before. The night of November 11, 1918, was a time in truth to pack one's troubles in the old kit bag.

Officers of the army today wonder if these songs are to be lost. They wonder what sort of a Grand Army of the Republic is to be born of the present war. They wonder if the soldiers of the American expeditionary forces are to form an organization of their own, or if the happier thought of an organization of all men who saw service anywhere under the flag is to find fulfillment.

The American army which is being demobilized is different from the army which went out of the service in 1895. There are no sectional lines drawn through it. It is an all American, all embracing force. Some kind of a society is bound to be produced which will keep the men together in spirit through the years to come as they have been kept together in spirit and in body in the months which have gone.

Children's Ailments

DISORDERS of the stomach and constipation are the most common diseases of children. To correct them you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Tablets. One tablet at bed time will do the work and will make your child bright and cheerful the following morning. Do not punish your children by giving them castor oil. Chamberlain's Tablets are better and more pleasant to take.

Trying to kid him.
Down at Kelly field an instructor left on a furlough and his cadets were assigned to other "flights" for their flying practice. By mistake one was attached to a "clerk" squad.
When his turn came he climbed into the rear pit and the instructor took him up to 6,000 feet, swung the machine into a spiral nose dive, and waved his arms above his head to indicate that the cadet should right the machine.
When the machine had dropped to 2,500 feet, gaining momentum rapidly, the instructor became alarmed and looked back at the cadet, who waved his arms above his head and grinned. The pilot grabbed the controls and made a safe landing.

The cadet explained that this was his first flight, and he thought the instructor was trying to kid him when he waved, so he pretended he wasn't scared.

Mexico to Restore Ruin.
The palace of Cortez, in the suburbs of Coyoacan, is to be reconstructed by the government and used as a museum for relics of the Spanish conquest. The structure, 400 years old, has been allowed to fall into ruins. In the courtyard are ancient trees, under which Hernan Cortez and his familiars were wont to rest. These are hundreds of years older than the ancient building itself. The chapel attached to the palace is still in good condition.

WOMAN'S REALM

Ringing All the Changes

By MARGARET ROHE
(Written for the United Press)

Do you remember—sure you do—That little blouse called peek-a-boo?
And how it scandalized the nation With its wee holes for ventilation? The waist today has broader views. It scorns such pultry pee-a-boos. So thin it is you well may say, It's really wasting quite away.

New York, June 16—They are being introduced to you as peasant blouses, jumpers, cassocks or to go the Frenchy limit, casaques, this season. In spite of such appellative camouflage you can see right through every one of 'em and know them for what they really are—just the eternal separate blouse.

Though they are always basically blouses, they certainly do ring the changes, even as they change the names. They have sprouted peplums and gilets and surpleces and all sorts of things and to look for a simple waist any more is simply a waste of time.

The loose three quarter tunic or Cossack model, bright with yarn, silk or metallic embroidery is the favored of fashion. From a Cossack to a cassock in the domestic models is but a shade of differing, but when the cassock is an imported casaque, you can see at a glance what a big difference there really is. In lovely sheer and soft Georgettes and chiffons their round necks, short sleeves and hems heavy with embroidery or bead work, these elongated waists are irresistible. Some, in lieu of the popular short sleeve, have long flowing transparent bell sleeves, weighted at the hand with a banding design of the beads or embroidery.

A most distinctive casaque, unusual for one reason—because it is actually developed in an opaque sport silk through which only X-ray eyes may peer—comes in all brilliant shades, coral, jade, organe, yellow, purple and marine blue and is deeply embroidered in waterlilies. It has a loose belt and a scarf attached to the neck which may be draped according to the wearers taste or discretion.

The surplice models are very smart in figured chiffons or plain-toned Georgette, crossing demurely over the breast and tying sashily behind. The gilet blouses are invested with much frilliness, lace and charm.

Perhaps the very newest note of the blouses this season is the color note. They are all a perfect riot of hectic shades, either in their material or their touches of embroidery and trimming. There is nothing soft or pastel about their tints, either, but the most brilliant and gorgeous of shades splash their transparent surfaces.

Even the wash waists, the trim tailor waists, and chastest of lingerie blouses all have their touches of color, if it be only the edging of a frill or the piping of a peplum. Colored organdies and voiles and swisses dotted with divers hues are fresh and fluffy as the summer flowers with their crisp hemstitched and scalloped frills around their necks and sleeves.

Stripes, checks, plaids, dots and all over figured designs in the voiles, chiffons and Georgette crepes have the solid colors, except the one toned organdies, backed into second place for the season's best blouses. So if you are figuring on a figured blouse, you may be sure of a waist that is no waste.

TO COMBAT WHITE PLAGUE

Federal Health Service May Create Tuberculosis Division.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 16—"One of the greatest victories of the war was the triumph of modern medicine in the control of acute infectious diseases. However, even greater benefit will result from the fact that the war also opened the eyes of the government as well as of the people to the great inroads that chronic diseases are making in our national economy," declared Dr. David P. Lyman, president, in addressing the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association here.

Dr. Lyman predicted the immediate creation of a division of tuberculosis in the United States public health service on account of the ravages of the white plague among America's manhood as revealed by the draft board records.

TO CALL WATERWAY ROOSEVELT CANAL

PLAN TO RENAME THE PANAMA "DITCH" AFTER THE COLONEL IS BEFORE CONGRESS.

MAY BE DONE BY PRESIDENT

Plenty of Reasons Why the Memory of the President Who Made Possible the Great Work Should Be Thus Honored.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Senator Calder of New York has introduced a bill to change the name of the Panama canal to the Roosevelt canal. It is said by friends of the measure that this might be called a bill for the obvious.

Since Theodore Roosevelt died his action in connection with the recognition of the independence of Panama, thereby making the Panama canal possible, has been made the subject of close scrutiny. In Thayer's biography of John Hay, who was secretary of state at the time that Panama threw off the yoke of Colombia, there is a detailed account of how Theodore Roosevelt made the Panama canal possible. It is enough perhaps for the present generation to know that the strenuous president went at the Panama situation as he went at everything else. He found that the time was ripe to strike, and he struck quickly.

It may be that such a course will be impossible, but there is the expression of hope in Washington, coming from men of different political parties, that President Wilson may find that he has the authority to change the name of the canal by executive order. It seems probable, however, that the canal having been recognized through legislation as the Panama canal, a specific additional act of congress will be necessary to make the name change desired.

Would Come Well From Wilson.

It is held that if Mr. Wilson can do the thing by executive order, the sentiment in the matter would be heightened by the act of a Democratic president doing honor through an executive order to a life deed of a Republican predecessor. There is a precedent for doing this thing by executive order. Four years ago Woodrow Wilson issued an executive order changing the name of the Culebra cut to Galliard cut, in honor of the great engineer who completed the channel and gave up his life as a sacrifice to the labor. There was opposition in some places to changing the name of the cut. A good deal of it was selfish. Mr. Wilson looked at the thing from every possible point of view, and then he acted.

There is an objection, and a natural one, to the naming of governmental possessions, canals, forts, ships and other things after living men. The Culebra cut did not become the Galliard cut until after Galliard's death. Theodore Roosevelt is dead, and one objection at least to the change of name vanishes. The canal was made possible by Roosevelt, and its rapid completion was the result of his thorough understanding of what finally should be done to do the work well and quickly.

The country will remember the unhappy sequence of events which followed, one after another, as a result of the insistence of certain business interests and certain individuals that the canal should be constructed by civilians. William H. Taft was secretary of war. The construction of the canal in a general way was under his distant direction. Nobody has forgotten the scathing reprimand which the secretary gave to one great civilian engineer, charged with the work of army canal building, for quitting his job when duty demanded that he "stay put."

Had It Built by Army Engineers.

One day Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft got together, and the president said to the secretary: "There is one way to build this canal, and one way only. Put army officers on the job. They only cannot desert, but they won't desert. They will obey orders, obey them willingly, and there are no better engineers in the United States."

Within forty-eight hours Lieut. Col. George W. Goethals and Maj. W. L. Sibert, H. C. Hodges and David DuB. Galliard were on the job. Col. William C. Gorgas of the medical department already had made the isthmus habitable.

The army moved on Panama. Goethals, the chief engineer, was in reality the administrator of the work. Sibert built the Gatun locks, dam and spillway; Galliard broke the backbone of the mountain range and completed the Culebra cut; Hodges designed the wonderful mechanism by which the locks are operated like clockwork; a civilian engineer, Williamson, under the direction of Goethals, completed the locks on the Pacific side, and Goethals administered the whole work.

The Panama canal was built after Roosevelt took the job away from civilians and put it in the hands of order-obeying soldiers. The canal has withstood earthquake shocks. It is a monument to American enterprise and skill.

One day the Gatun locks may be called the Sibert locks; the Pacific end of the canal may be called the Goethals gateway; the civilian Williamson's name may be remembered. These men are all living. Possibly before long the waterway will be called the Roosevelt canal.

ONE UNION OR MANY

The "one big union" idea advocated by some leaders at the Federation of Labor convention is appealing in some respects, but it is full of peril, industrially and politically.

It is natural for organized workers to desire the extension of their organization to include all the wage-earners in a great, compact, powerful federation. Many leaders complain that the present organization of the Federation of Labor is too loose. These leaders represent the extremist idea, which has found favor in the west, and which seems to be winning in Canada.

Against them are arrayed Samuel Gompers and the other so-called conservative leaders who have guided the destinies of the Federation for many years. They maintain that in the very looseness of the present organization lies its great merit and strength. A report submitted by a committee of which Mr. Gompers is chairman asserts:

"The magnificent growth of the American Federation of Labor is conceded by all students of economic thought to be the result of organization on trade lines; and believing it neither necessary nor expedient to make any radical departure from this fundamental principle, we declare that as a general proposition the interest of workers will be best conserved by adhering as closely to that doctrine as the recent great changes in methods of production and employment make practicable."

All this sounds rather vague to the ordinary citizen. The gist of the matter seems to lie in the relative power of organized labor to enforce its will under the two plans. According to the present system, there is a loose federation of trades, with each trade practically independent. Thus any particular trade presents its demands and, if it comes to the worst, inaugurates a strike which may involve only the local branch of that trade or may extend to the entire trade throughout the country, but which seldom drags in other trades. There are sometimes "sympathetic strikes," but they are voluntary, and are the exception rather than the rule.

The purpose of the radicals who demand the unionization and centralization of all workmen is to make possible the calling out of all organized labor in any community, and even the calling of a complete national strike.

The danger of such a system to the nation as a whole is self-evident. The danger to the average union workman himself is also evident enough to the more sober and thoughtful unionists. It may be very fine to have all the other trades quit work in support of a demand made by one's own trade. But it is not so fine for a member of a union to be obliged to quit work, time and time again, in compulsory support of claims made by other unions in which he has only the most distant interest.

"RED" TERRORISM

American Bolsheviks, or American Anarchists, or both together—in fact, it is hard to distinguish between them in practice, despite the difference of their political philosophy—seem to be resorting to terrorism to attain their purpose. The bombs sent through the mails, the May Day riots, the recent attempts to blow up the homes of many public men throughout the country whom they regard as standing in their way, all this is clear indication of a deliberate resort to criminal violence.

It is a confession that the propaganda by which the "Reds" originally counted to win converts has failed. Even Bolsheviks or Anarchists do not go to the trouble of using bombs when they can make converts by the spoken or written word. It is prophetic, too, of the certain failure awaiting this whole radical movement.

These "Reds" have still to learn what the German nation has learned through bitter experience—that civilized, strong-hearted people will not be persuaded by violence, and that every attempt to coerce or terrify them only moves them to more relentless opposition. Every bomb drives more thousands of open-minded folk into the ranks of the conservatives and helps to discredit and destroy the forces of destruction.

WORKERS GAIN POINT

Telephone Employees Are Given Right to Organize.

Postmaster General Issues Order Forbidding Companies to Oppose the Unions.

Washington, June 16.—The nationwide telephone strike, scheduled to begin Monday, was canceled following issuance of an order by Postmaster General Burleson granting employees of telephone companies the right to bargain collectively. This virtually recognizes the union. The cancellation order was issued in Washington, by P. J. Noonan, acting president of the Electrical Workers union.

Besides establishing the right of employees to deal with telephone companies either as individuals or collectively, Postmaster General Burleson's order requires companies to deal with representatives of employees who are not themselves employed by the company concerned, if they have ever had that policy in the past. The "right to organize or to affiliate with organizations that seem to them best calculated to serve their interest" is further confirmed for employees, and companies are forbidden to discharge, demote or discriminate against workers for so organizing.

State Insurance Pays

Portland, Ore.—Since the state workmen's compensation law became effective in 1914, the industrial accident commission has received from all sources $6,007,081 which it has disbursed in the course of business at an administrative expense of only 6.17 per cent, the balance being available for the payments of claims of workmen injured in Oregon industry. During the year 1918 there were 25,288 workmen injured in industry in the state, 182 of the accidents being fatal.

Women Do 22 Per Cent Work

Washington, D. C.—Eight million, or 22 per cent, of all persons engaged in gainful occupations in the United States are women, according to the women's division of the federal employment service.

Of this $8,000,000 more than 1,000,000 were women and girls employed for non-monetary returns on home farms. Roughly calculated, 19 per cent of all paid employees in 1910 were women and girls who need employment information at some period in their lives.

Biggest on Earth

In 1790 Postmaster General Osgood had a total of 118 employees of all kinds, while Postmaster General Burleson directs the activities of 300,000 officers and employees in the postal service. The postage stamp was officially adopted and placed on sale in New York on July 1, 1847. In the following year $60,380 postage stamps were sold, increasing to 2,219,737,400 in 1890 and to 13,065,784,852 in 1918.

Uncle Sam is growing big, isn't he?

A. F. of L. Year Book Tells Labor's Story

Washington, D. C.—The A. F. of L. Year Book, authorized by the Baltimore and Buffalo conventions has been placed on the market. It is over 500 pages and is a history of the American trade union movement and is also an encyclopedia and record, in condensed form, of every important action considered in the 38 conventions held since the organization of the A. F. of L. in 1881.

The work was compiled by William C. Roberts, writer on economic questions, and member of the Chicago Typographical union.

Railway Clerks Get Favorable Agreement

Richmond, Va.—Federal Manager George W. Stevens of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and the adjustment board of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks of the same line have signed an agreement.

The right of the men to join the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the recognition of that organization's seniority rights, the eight-hour day; the 26-day month with specified holidays; pay for all overtime, an adequate jurisdiction clause, and vacation periods are agreed to.

Woolworth Store Girls Demand Higher Wages

South Chicago, Ill.—The girls employed in the Woolworth store were recently organized and made a demand for increased wages and shorter hours. When it was rejected the girls walked out of the store. Wages paid was from $4.50 to $7.50 per week. It is understood that that is the rate paid in nearly all the stores of this company in the various cities. It will be recalled that the head of this company, F. W. Woolworth, died recently and left a fortune of $60,000,000. Its accumulation was due largely to the extremely low wages paid employees and the slavish conditions exacted.

College Professors Form Union--Raised

Cambridge, Mass.—Harvard professors who have been agitating for an increase in pay for some time, recently formed a union and are now affiliated with the Boston Central labor union. On that fact becoming known to the overseers of Harvard college, salaries were advanced to $500 for some professors, and is graded down to a minimum of $25,000, a new high basis.

Hello Girls Continue to Worry Burleson

Galesburg, Ill.—A telephone operators' union has been formed here with a large percentage of the girls signing the application for a charter issued to them by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Atlanta, Ga.—A union of 400 telephone operators has been organized in this city and active work is being done to secure the membership of the other 200 not yet on the roll of the new union.

Strike Settled At Superior

Following a nine-day strike of the building trades of Superior, Wis., a settlement was reached which gives bricklayers $1 per day, plasterers 90 cents; carpenters, electricians and sheet metal workers, each ask 80 cents under their demands. Demand of the plumbers is yet to be adjusted as is also that of the structural iron workers and hoisting engineers, but negotiations indicate an early settlement.

Furniture Workers Win.

Rockford, Ill.—The furniture workers who have been on strike since April 1, recently voted to return to work, having secured improved conditions which gives them a 50-hour week with 60 hours' pay. Their original demands were for eight hours and increased wages. Their struggle has resulted in reducing the hours 10 per week—a decided advantage.

BRITISH AIRMEN CROSS ATLANTIC

Captain Alcock and Lieutenant Brown Make First Non-Stop Trip Over Ocean.

TIME SIXTEEN HOURS

Voyage Is Without Accident, but Vickers-Vimy Biplane Is Forced to Climb and Dive in Effort to Escape Fogs.

London, June 16.—The final goal of all the ambitions which flying men have ventured to dream since the Wright brothers first rose from the earth was realized when the British officers, Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Brown, landed on the Irish coast after the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic ocean.

Their voyage was without accident and without unforeseen incident, so far as can be learned. It was a straight-away clean-cut flight, achieved in 16 hours and 12 minutes—from New Foundland to Clifden, Ireland, a distance of more than 1,900 miles.

Plane Battles With Fogs.
 But the brief description which comes from the air men at Clifden tells of an adventurous and amazingly hazardous enterprise. Fog and mists hung over the North Atlantic, and the Vickers-Vimy biplane climbed and dove, struggling to extricate herself from the folds of the airplane's worst enemy.

She rose to 11,000 feet, swooped down almost to the surface of the sea and at times the two navigators found themselves flying upside down only ten feet above the water.

Before booming down to earth near the Clifden wireless station Alcock circled the wireless aerials, seeking the best spot to reach the earth but no suitable ground was found, so he chanced it in a bog.

The wireless staff rushed to the aid of the aviators. They found Brown dazed and Alcock temporarily deafened by the force of the impact. As soon as they were able to be escorted to the wireless station they telegraphed the news to their friends, then had breakfast.

"That is the best way to cross the Atlantic," said Lieutenant Brown after he had eaten.

The landing was made at 9:40 a. m. British summer time. In taking the ground the machine struck heavily and the fuselage ploughed into the sand. Neither of the occupants were injured.

Radio Out of Commission.
 Captain Alcock explained the silence of his radio instrument by saying that the wireless propeller blew off soon after leaving New Foundland.

The Daily Mail's correspondent found Alcock and Brown at Clifden packing their gear into a huge sack. Alcock's face lit up with a smile when he was congratulated by the correspondent. Brown, who was bending over packing, said quietly:

"We didn't do so badly, did we?" Alcock said with a laugh: I am not at all tired. Brown, however, confessed, "I am a bit fagged out." The correspondent says Brown's eyes were slightly bloodshot, but that otherwise the men looked as if they had not travelled across the ocean.

ALTITUDE RECORD IS SET

French Aviator Soars to Height of 33,000 Feet.

Villacoublay, June 16.—Adjutant Casale, the French aviator, who established a new world altitude record of 31,168 feet last week, broke that record by ascending to a height approximately 33,136 feet. The temperature at that height was 8 degrees below zero.

French Seek Printing Machinery.

Why Gasoline Prices Are Low

THE fact that gasoline prices are low constitutes the achievement of an ideal on the part of the Standard Oil Company. There are several contributing factors.

The ingenuity of the automobile engineers in producing cars at moderate prices and the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company in producing gasoline in sufficient quantities to supply the demand have placed both in the light of staples.

The demand for gasoline is steady—the supply is steady—thus enabling the Company to utilize its equipment to a maximum capacity which in turn keeps down the costs and therefore selling prices.

The Standard Oil Company through long years of experience is able to rescue and utilize all of those fractions which go to make gasoline, and to utilize all by-products for commodities of universal use.

This plays an important part in keeping down manufacturing costs on the basic product—gasoline.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) furthermore steadfastly adheres to a fixed policy of supplying first, the patrons of the eleven states it serves.

Thus at all times there is an ample supply for every five gallon buyer and every five thousand gallon buyer with no embarrassing demands from outside to drain the supply and force an increase in price.

It is by this husbandry that the Company is able to keep down the price of gasoline that you may run your car for the enjoyment of your family or the furtherance of your business without great expense for fuel.

You may not know that gasoline sells in this market for about one-half or one-third the price charged in Europe even under normal pre-war conditions.

DEATH OF ORRVAR FROM ACCIDENT

Coroner's Inquest Held Monday Morning Following the Fatal Accident of Sunday

MANY WITNESSES AT HEARING

No One Could Testify as to Seeing How the Collision Took Place, Orrvar's Skull Fractured

A coroner's inquest was held early Monday to inquire into the death of Ole Orrvar, single and aged 70, whose skull was fractured in an automobile accident Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and who died an hour and a half later at St. Joseph's hospital.

The jury declared "that Orrvar came to his death by collision with an automobile driven by Gilbert Antonson and that it was purely an accident and that no one is responsible for the accident."

Orrvar was riding his bicycle when the collision occurred near the southwest corner of Laurel and Broadway, and fell under the car.

Orrvar was a brother of Mrs. O. S. Swanson and had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, 410 Third Avenue N. E., the past five years. A brother Lars lives in Sauk Center.

Antonson testified at the coroner's inquest and traced the route of his car, a Ford, and claimed he turned on the right side and in proper manner. He did not see where Orrvar came from and only remembered touching the rear wheel of the bicycle with the left hand front wheel of his car. He was driving eight to ten miles an hour and stopped in a car length.

THE JURY HEARING CASE IN MORNING

John Cochran
Ed Levant
Joseph Hebert
C. E. Peabody
B. A. Samuelson
Archie Purdy.

James W. O'Brien of the O'Brien Mercantile Co., testified first at the inquest, and said he saw the injured man lying under the Antonson car. Mr. O'Brien had been driving his car to the rear of Antonson and swung off to Lively's and stopped at the filling station. The street was clear, he said. He did not see Orrvar.

J. M. Mraz did not see the accident, but helped lift the injured man out from under the car. The body lay near the crosswalk in the center of Laurel street just west of Broadway.

Officer B. E. Koecher did not see Orrvar on his bicycle, nor how the accident occurred. He came in time to help get the man out from under the car. The bicycle lay near the car.

Jacob Kaupp knew nothing of the occurrence and was excused. So was J. Harry O'Brien.

W. J. LeNeau looked from the Mahlum block and saw three men carrying the body.

Oscar Swanson stated Ruth Soderlund and her brother, Reuben, had seen the accident as they walked down Broadway to the depot. The witnesses could not be summoned as both, it was ascertained, had gone to Canada for a visit.

Chris Templis stood near the Model Laundry and saw the car at the crossing. The car stood about in the middle of the street, about 15 feet from the curb.

Dr. J. A. Thabes testified the man died from a fractured skull, never regained consciousness and death followed an hour and a half later after the accident.

Antonson testified owning a car for a month, of exercising caution in driving and of knowing the traffic laws. He is 28 years old, has a wife and two children, came to Brainerd in 1908 and is employed as a blacksmith helper. He lives at 1016 Rosewood street.

HOME BURNED DOWN

Seymour Roberts' Residence in West Brainerd Burned at 4 O'clock on Sunday Morning

The four-room two-story frame residence of Seymour Roberts, situated in West Brainerd, burned to the ground Sunday morning at 4 o'clock. Neighbors saved the piano and a little furniture.

The department answered the call, but being outside the hydrant area, not much aid could be extended. The Roberts family was out at Gull River and did not know of the fire until later. They carried about $500 insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Critic Coins New Word.

Tired of the hackneyed phrase, a "gripping" story, originated by some weary critic and eagerly snatched up by book advertisers, it has remained for a Boston dramatic critic to discover a new term. He has found a play that is "riveting" in its intensity of interest.

Pitching marvelous ball, Lefty Hier, St. Paul southpaw on the mound for Brainerd at Koering park Sunday afternoon, scored his third consecutive shut-out, Brainerd defeating Ironton 4 to 0. Cook spearheaded a hot liner off first with one mitt and drew a hand of applause. Two of the Brainerd runs trickled in when Smith, in left field, muffed Carlson's fly.

Lefty Hier fanned 14, allowed but 2 hits, and gave 5 passes and was right there with the stick, getting 2 hits in 3 times up. He also got 2 assists. A pretty play occurred in the second inning when Put Russ' liner was fielded by Cook who left first base to nail it and then tossed it to Second Baseman Benda covering first. The crowd was right there with a hand, appreciating team play like that.

In the seventh inning Ironton took Smith out of left field and substituted Lundgren.

Here is a review of Brainerd's piling up of runs. It led off in the third inning with a hit by Lefty Hier, later being forced out at second when Stallman made first. Gaskill's sacrifice advanced Stallman, and Templeton's single scored Stallman.

In the sixth Templeton, Cook and Benda hammered out hits. Templeton scored. Cook and Benda blew in together when Carlson's high one was fozled by Smith in the left field garden.

Shello made a fine running catch off Howard's fly in the ninth inning, coming up on a dead run and pocketing it. Lundgren grabbed his first chance in the eighth and speared Bush's fly.

There was some comment about tall grass and hay stumpage and the management assures the public that scarcity of labor was to blame for the crop not being harvested. It will be leveled before the next game there.

Jennings had a hard time of it with Brainerd, the locals touching him up for nine hits. Templeton had a good day of it, feasting on Jennings to the extent of three hits in four times to bat. Tom stole two bases, hitting the dirt and making his hook slides in true big league style.

On the Ironton side Moore made quite a record. He fanned once and then drew three passes. He and Carns secured the only stolen bases on the Ironton side of the column. The score:

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

Sergt. V'm. V. Turcotte and B. L. Lagerquist were fishing four days at Walker and Backus, the best luck being at Backus. They packed their fish in ice and on Sunday remembered many of their friends including the reporter who acknowledges having a fish supper Sunday evening, the fish being as fresh as though they had hopped right from the water to the frying pan. A fishing story like this one is of the kind which it gives any man great satisfaction to write about.

There was excitement aboard the baggage car of the Duluth train the other day. The car contained a quota of pigs, chickens, rabbits, including the messenger and a horse and the horse jumped out of his crate and the messenger had to chase the animal around trunks and egg cases to get him back in his stall and nail up the beast again. It is little diversions like these which make the life of a messenger on the rolling Superior division a life of constant change, turmoil and excitement.

A suggestion has been made that a cornerstone be laid in the new depot and the occasion made a scene of municipal and general rejoicing. If every man, woman and child that ever passed through the old depot could be on hand, you would need the state of Minnesota to hold them. The old depot did business 45 years or more.

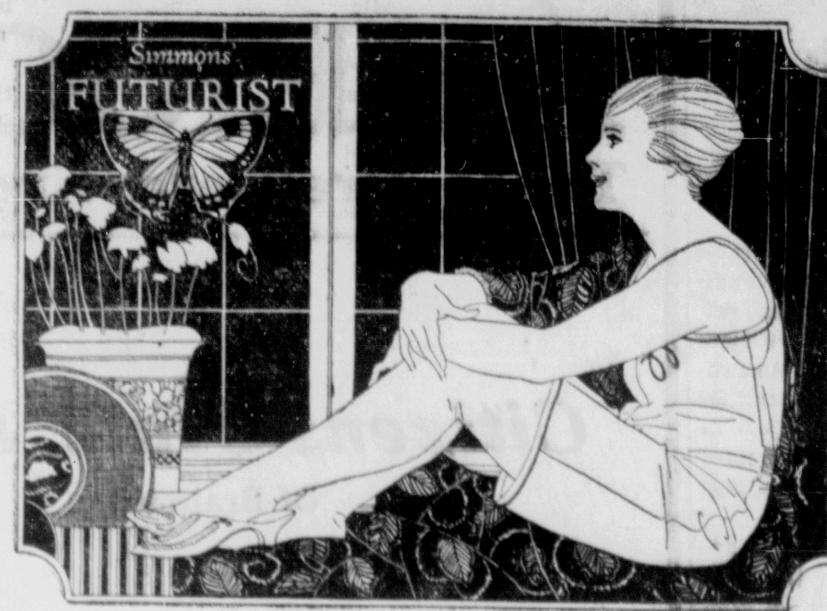

Following the automobile accident of Sunday when a man had his head fractured and died, street traffic signs have been placed at street intersections.

Thirty Cent Increase in Coal Freight Rates Proposed, Hits Minnesota People

In the hope of saving the people of Minnesota, more than $1,000,000 a year in added freight charges on coal from the Illinois fields, the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission has sent Commissioner Fred W. Putnam to Washington to wage a vigorous fight for the desired result. The United States Railroad administration has announced its intention to increase the freight rate on Illinois coal 30 cents a ton, on the pretense of equalizing an alleged discrimination in rates against the Ohio and Pennsylvania coals moving by way of the Great Lakes to the Duluth and Superior docks. Formal protest against the proposed increase has been filed by the Minnesota Commission with the Railroad Administration, which ordered a hearing on the matter at Washington, May 29.

It is contended by the Minnesota Commission that the Federal Railroad Administration recognized an improper principle in allowing three increases in freight rates from the eastern fields over the lake and rail route, and thereby imposed an abnormal and unjust expense upon the coal consumers of the Northwest. The Minnesota Commission proposes a different method for determining the latter rates, which would have the effect of materially reducing the tariff now in force, and which virtually will place the eastern and Illinois coals on a parity in the Minnesota market. The burden of the increase will fall, as usual, on the poor old "ultimate consumer." In this instance they will be penalized some-

U. S. Labor Department Finds Cost of Living for "Average" Family

A year's study by the United States department of labor of living conditions in this country, shows that salaried family men of the $2,500 class or less find saving difficult. According to the tabulation many families can show a surplus of only $50 at the end of the year and that most show a deficit. Meanwhile the cost of living continues to soar.

The investigation shows that approximately 20 per cent of the total income is all that the "average family" has left after making necessary expenditures for food, clothing, rent, light, heat and furniture. Out of this 20 per cent surplus must come all costs of medicinal attendance, amusements, entertainments, donations to the churches, education and miscellaneous expenses.

FIGHT MENACE OF ANARCHISM

American Workers Alive to the Danger Contained in "Red" Propaganda

Organized effort that has been carried on by the patriotic workmen of this country to overthrow the bolshevik and the I. W. W. element is one of the promising signs that American labor is becoming aroused to the menace of the red propaganda.

At this time, when there is so much unrest and bolshevik disturbance going on in various parts of the world, we should do everything we can to uphold the one flag that stands for righteousness and liberty in the world. We have room for but one flag, the American flag, and this excludes the red flag, which symbolizes all wars against liberty and civilization, just as much as it excludes any foreign flag of a nation to which we are hostile. We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language, for we intend to see that the crucible turns our people out as Americans of American nationality.

In a country with universal man suffrage, and soon to have universal woman suffrage, there can be no justification for revolutionary agitation, and those who endorse it are prompted by ignorance or malevolence.

There should be a real partnership between labor and capital.—Union Labor Advocate, Chicago.

Studebaker Cars, Like Overlands, Non-Union

Detroit, Mich.—Nearly 2,000 machinists employed by the Studebaker corporation are on strike. Continuous discrimination against union men forced the issue. The men are demanding a 44-hour week, with Saturday half holiday, wage increases of 15 cents an hour, time and a half for overtime and double time for late night work and holidays, and reinstatement of discharged unionists. An equal number of men are still on strike at the Timkin plant. Both companies refused to meet union representatives.

MOONEY CASE REVIEWED

Secretary of Labor Counsels Unions Not to Jurize in This Matter

Atlantic City, N. J., June 14—Secretary of Labor Wilson, addressing the convention of the American Federation of Labor today counselled organized labor not to participate in the proposed national strike for the liberation of Thomas Mooney, convicted of complicity in the San Francisco bomb plot. He said the government was investigating the evidence in the case with a view to granting Mooney a new trial and that working men could not properly constitute themselves a jury to try him.

Secretary Wilson also referred to the "Bolsheviks of the United States," who, he said, were allied with the I. W. W. and for whom the working men of America had no sympathy whatever when they understood the Bolshevik creed. Bolshevism, the secretary said, essentially created obligatory labor, or virtual slavery and all working men had been fighting against slavery since the days of Moses.

Improvement Shown

A recent canvass by the United States department of labor shows a further decrease in the number of unemployed in the country. The country is coming through the reconstruction period in fine style and proving that a large part of the unemployment problem was psychological.—Union Advocate, St. Paul.
